Rational and efficient solutions to challenging and complex questions.

Short description

Noel Beer is a communicative team player who is interested in finding pragmatic solutions to complex questions and requirements. His analytical approach and good general knowledge enable him to recognise the complex interrelationships of today's world and see the "big picture". He provides valuable support and assistance for both external clients and his colleagues at Affinitas. This includes the preparation and implementation of process workshops in SCM and production, and the recording and documentation of processes in a manufacturing company in the pharmaceutical industry.

Focal points

- Sub-project management, support in operational implementation
- Preparation and follow-up of workshops
- Reinforcement in reorganisation projects, project planning, documentation work, training
